It is stated that Rev. Sidney Albright, of Port Huron, Mich., has accepted the rectorship of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of this city, and is expected to arrive in a few days.

The well-known banking house of Merideth & Ailman, of Silver City, N. M., closed its doors last Thursday. The usual announcement is made that depositors will be paid in full.

Dr. Paul Brown, post surgeon of Fort Huachuca, was in the city yesterday, accompanied by W. W. Gordon and R. W. Parker of New Jersey. The party had just returned from an inspection of some mining property in Sonora, in which they are interested.

The EPIGRAPH presses are kept going night and day on job work. Business men are just beginning to realize that they can get as superior a class of job work here as elsewhere, and at low prices too.

Sidney Thomas came in from the West Huachuca Thursday, for a doctor to attend Mr. Peterson, who was sick with a disease supposed to be small-pox. It was brought from Sonora by a Mexican.

The coming week one of the most reliable young men of the camp will lead the altar a young lady who enjoys the distinction of being one of Tombstone's most estimable daughters. The EPIGRAPH wishes them a joyous future.

The EPIGRAPH regrets to learn that Miss Willie Sneed, step-daughter of our esteemed townsman, Mr. E. J. Roberts, is seriously ill. She will be taken to the more genial winter climate of Yuma as soon as able to travel.

Earthquakes have just ruined Bavispe, Sonora. The inhabitants lost their all and are suffering.—Prescott Courier Dec. 12.

The earthquake took place last May. Ramon Estrella and Francisco Barrella, who by virtue of the Gadsden treaty, are citizens of the United States, were examined before Judge-Postmaster-General Wardwell, at Fairbank, last Wednesday, on a charge of burglarizing the Eagle Hotel, in Charleston. District Attorney English went down from Tombstone in behalf of the Territory. The result was that the prisoners were held to await the action of the grand jury, and are now safely incarcerated in the Hotel de Slaughter.

Our citizens would do well to guard against the depredations of a gang of petty larceny thieves which appears to be at present infesting this city. Last Sunday night a quantity of groceries was stolen from the back porch of H. A. Tweed residence; stores were also taken from Monach, the tailor, and a number of hen roosts have been robbed.

The usual haul of suckers was taken in by the shell game at Fairbank, last Tuesday. Chief of Police Oaks very properly refused to allow the cross-roads to work the gullible Tombstone public. And yet, if men are such fools as to bet against the game, they don't deserve much sympathy. It is as sure a thing as bunco or four aces, that a person who goes against it loses his money.

It is probable that a match race will be made between the gray stallion, Bobby Burns, owned by Reppy & Duncan, and John Hill's roan, to take place on Christmas day. As they are two of the fleetest animals in the Territory, and evenly matched, it will be a nip-and-tuck affair.

Owing to the inclement weather, Forepaugh's circus was not as well patronized at the performance given in this city on Wednesday last, as its merits warranted. It was by far the best circus that has ever visited Tombstone. But this is not saying a great deal.

On Tuesday last rain set in, and on Wednesday turned into a regular old-fashioned snow-storm. The mountains are now covered with snow from four to six feet deep, while in the valleys it has melted away. The author of "Beautiful Snow" could get plenty of inspiration in this portion of Arizona at the present time.

If the High Forehead Society, which proposes to import professional baseball players in order to advertise the wonderful resources of Arizona and induce immigration, would turn their attention to the breeding of fighting dogs, it would answer the same purpose and be less expensive. The liberality of a people who will spend a thousand dollars on a baseball team and a dollar and a half on printers' ink, deserves recognition. These remarks will apply to other places than Phenix.

Capt. J. J. McClellan and Mr. A. Y. Young, owners of the Little Bonanza mine situated on the strike of the Contention lode, a mile north of town, are jubilant over a recent development in their property. The shaft is now down forty feet, all in ore, which although not of very high grade, is rich enough to warrant considerable excitement in that neighborhood. The predominant metal is gold, and the ledge is large and well defined. If, as is believed, this should prove to be the continuation of the great fissure of the camp, the importance of the strike cannot be overestimated. Property in the vicinity has all been recently re-located, and the coming year will witness considerable development upon the same.

A Socorro county, New Mexico, Justice of the peace advises that he makes marriages a specialty.

According to the Postmaster General, the Government could save a million and a half dollars annually by owning the postal cars of the country.

The Atlantic & Pacific railroad has brought suit against the Arizona Mineral Belt railroad, for money alleged to be due, while the latter company is suing the Atlantic & Pacific for breach of contract. It looks like the Atlantic & Pacific folks want to gobble the line, and continue its construction to connect their system between Flagstaff and Benson.—Arizona.

The Arizona Mineral Belt railroad has been leased to Messrs. Foster, Doyle & Co., who have a large wood contract with parties in Los Angeles. The gentlemen, who have leased the road until next spring, will transport saw logs, lumber and wood, and all local freight along the line. We believe that the creditors are entirely satisfied with the arrangements, as we are told that one of the clauses of their contract, compels them to keep the rolling stock and road in good repair, which certainly will be better for all concerned, than if the road and its equipments were to lie idle.—Flagstaff Champion.

Apache county has been startled by another killing which may result in further bloodshed. Last week, a cowboy named Taylor rode into Page's saloon in Winslow, revolver in hand, and announced his determination to clean out the house. Before his threat could be carried into execution, his head was literally blown from his body by some unknown person. A number of his companions mounted their horses, and announced their intention of killing Page. The latter stood in his door with a double barreled shot gun loaded with buckshot, and stood the men off. Further trouble is expected.

A CARD.
TOMBSTONE, A. T., Dec. 17, 1887.

EDITOR EPIGRAPH:
The insidious notice in the Prospector to-day, of myself and the Cochise County Bank, is in full keeping with that paper. The fact is, instead of retiring from the bank, or its capital being diminished, it will after January 1, 1888, be increased.

STAR OF BETHLEHEM.

The Star of Bethlehem is now visible from 3 o'clock in the morning until daylight, and throughout most of the day by means of a telescope. Its first appearance is in the east and its brilliancy cannot fail to attract attention. Eighteen hundred and eighty-seven years ago the same orb was given importance in that it directed a doubting people to the birth of the Christian world's Savior. The same star continues to send forth its brilliancy, and can be viewed by the present generation, or such members as will arouse themselves at the early hour mentioned.

Mr. A. E. Jacobs will leave this afternoon to meet his wife at Benson. He will return on Monday's stage.

Summerfield & Roman, the San Francisco clothiers, send all goods ordered by express, and exchange if not suited, 942 Market street San Francisco.

Seamans & Son have the largest and best selected stock of jewelry, watches, silverware, etc., ever brought to this city. Call and examine the goods.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO BUY HOLIDAY PRESENTS AT COST.

H. Schmieding is now offering some of the best bargains in watches, clocks, jewelry and silverware ever heard of. It is a fact that he is selling goods of the very best quality at about bullion value. Here is an opportunity to purchase holiday presents that is rarely offered, and one which the people of Tombstone and the surrounding country should not fail to avail themselves of. While the stock is not large, it contains many articles which would make valuable presents, and which would doubtless suit you. Call and examine the goods; it is no trouble to show them. Remember the place. H. Schmieding, south side of Allen street, between Fourth and Fifth streets.

Copper.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Copper was steady and higher. All spot offers were picked up at 17.45 and 17.60. The London market opened at £76.35 for Chili bars, and closed amid great excitement at £77 for spot, and £70.55 for future. Nearly three thousand tons have been taken out of the market.

Ranch Sold.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., December 13.—H. L. Ryan and other Minnesota capitalists have purchased the Chino ranch of Richard Gird and formed a joint stock company. They have let a contract to put up rolling mills on the land for $50,000. They have a mountain of iron two miles from Daggett from which they get the material.

Killed by Miners.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 13.—An Examiner's special from El Paso Texas, says: A telegram from Kingston announces the death of York Meagher, formerly an El Paso landlord, by miners with whom he had a difficulty. After being wounded he mounted his horse and started for Kingston, but was waylaid and killed on the road. His slayers were arrested and are now in the Hillsboro jail.

This morning as we go to press we learn that a flow of 84,300 gallons per twenty-four hours was struck at the railroad wells for our water works. The company has been working for 60,000 gallons. This settles the question of machine shops, factories, smelters, etc., for Lordsburg. "Glory to God on high!" and giant powder properly applied.—Lordsburg Liberal.

DEMPESEY AND REAGAN FIGHT FORTY-FIVE ROUNDS.

NEW YORK, December 13.—The Dempsey-Reagan prize fight for the middle-weight championship took place to-day upon the Hudson River. The men met and battled for forty-five rounds with kid gloves, London prize ring rules, and the fight was won by Dempsey, who out-generalized Reagan and out-fought Reagan from the very start. Reagan stood up with remarkable gameness under "Nonpareil's" mastery and powerful strokes, but in the forty-fifth round, after the men had been engaged for an hour and nine minutes, Reagan's seconds seeing that he had no possible chance for winning, threw up the sponge. Reagan had suffered severely, while Dempsey was comparatively free from the marks of the combat. Only about twenty people were present. Stakes $2,000.

PROFIT IN ALFALFA.

Some of the papers in the interior are calculating the amount of profit to be realized in raising alfalfa, and are advising farmers to go into the cultivation of that plant on a large scale. Judging from the tenor of much that is said, one would be justified in concluding that the writers are of the Rip Van Winkle family and have just awoke to what has been going on here for more than a quarter of a century. The discovery would seem to have been made recently that there is no forage plant grown that will yield such large crops and as many from a single seeding as will alfalfa. In a case which has recently come under our notice, it is stated as something wonderful that an alfalfa field has been known to yield as much as twelve tons to the acre in a single season and that the hay is worth $5 per ton in the field. Among the items of expense is found one of $3 an acre for water. Certainly no one will dispute the exceedingly conservative character of this estimate. It might have been much more flattering, and still the brand of truth need not have been trampled upon. Instead of twelve tons to the acre in one season, there are many places in California where alfalfa has been grown for many years where crops averaging two to three tons to the acre, have been harvested seven and eight times in as many months, and after this heavy yield good pasture has been furnished in the same field for the remainder of the year. So much for the yield—now a word as to prices. In the estimate under discussion $5 per ton was mentioned as the average price for alfalfa, with the statement that in exceptional seasons as much as $6 a ton was paid. To the alfalfa grower of Southern California this comes as a reminder of times long since passed. Years ago when population was scarce, and the demand small, it sometimes happened that alfalfa hay sold for as little as $5 or $6 per ton. That period has long since passed. For years the price has been appreciating until now it is only in exceptional cases that alfalfa can be bought for less than $15 or $16 per ton, while as high as $20 to $25 has more than once been the rate. It is not apparent, either, that there is any probability of these figures being appreciably lessened in the future. As the years go by the population increases, the demand for feed for horses and cows far outstrips the supply, and the alfalfa farmer continually finds himself unable to oversupply the demand. Formerly the southern counties were able to raise their entire supply of butter at home, the alfalfa fields furnishing food which was converted into milk and butter at the smallest possible outlay. At one time these counties were able to export the products of the dairy in large quantities. But now all this is changed. Instead of being an exporter, the southern part of the State has become an importer, and the large dairying counties farther north are called upon for supplies by the hundreds of tons. From present indications there seems to be little chance that this condition of affairs will soon or indeed ever be reversed, and for this reason it is apparent that the alfalfa grower has a most flattering prospect. It is a fact that many farmers in sections where oranges and raisins are paying at the rate of $100 to $400 an acre are seriously of the opinion that alfalfa yields more profit one year with another, than anything else, and they are governing themselves accordingly. At any rate, as long as population is increasing at the present rate there can be no danger of an oversupply. And if the time ever comes when more alfalfa is produced than can be profitably converted into butter or sold in the market, there will be still another channel opened for its use, and that will be in the raising of beef cattle. Year by year the area of natural grass range becomes more and more restricted, and at the same time the demand for beef and mutton constantly increases. It is plainly manifest that in no great time almost entire dependence must be placed upon the raising of feed for beef cattle, and this opens up an almost illimitable field of profit for the alfalfa grower. Already in Colorado the stockmen are raising this grass by the thousands of acres, and they find much larger profit in thus keeping their cattle than in the old fashion on natural grass. In time almost the entire cattle production of Colorado and California will be upon the alfalfa fields, and it cannot be doubted that the out-look for this branch of farming is fully as flattering as of the fruit grower or the farmer who engages in any other branch of his calling.—Range Journal.

ASPERSET.

[Northwestern Live-Stock Journal, Cheyenne.]
Another new grass is brought out by a Nevada ranchman. Should it be true that this grass will grow "better without water than with," we will want a shipment of seed "brought over." But, as said elsewhere in to-day's Journal, we are liable to find some kind of a forage plant that will enable us to greatly increase our productiveness of stock in all the arid region. We may all wish for a change of climate sufficient to make of this a rich agricultural country, and speculators may claim that the change is rapidly coming. But all the same the country will remain in the future as in the past, a great stock-growing region and our wealth must come mainly from that source. More feed is desirable, and especially so if we can find a variety of clover that will flourish on our dry ridges without irrigation. But read the following and see what a change could be brought about if the statements of Mr. Springmeyer are half true:

The Carson Appeal reports that Herman Springmeyer, a Carson valley rancher, is buying hillsides in Douglas county on which he proposes sowing a new forage plant, known in Germany as "asperset." Mr. Springmeyer, who is reported as having tried the new grass near Genoa, is quoted as saying: "It is a plant which looks like clover, and grows about eighteen inches high. I am convinced that it will grow on the rankest and barrenest hillside in this State. You can cut two crops. It is considered much better than alfalfa in Germany. It fattens cattle faster and makes cows give better milk. No one would think of using alfalfa in Germany when he could get asperset. Yes, I took barren land that no one else wanted probably, but once let this forage plant get a foothold here, and every foot of that land will be in demand. It will make all these hills green. The dryer the soil the better. It flourishes among the rocks, and a limestone formation seems about the best place for it. It comes early in the spring and stays green until the snow covers it. I have sent to Germany for more seed. It is the coming plant for cattle and horses, and stockmen can get rich here in Nevada if they never have a drop of water. It will not grow in moist land, too much moisture kills it. The hotter and dryer the season the better. Our dry climate is exactly suitable for it, and the ranchers will not be long finding out what it will do. California is too moist for the successful growth of this plant, but Nevada's dry climate is just the place for it.
